

Editor's introduction to the work of Jacob Gorham:

I have solicited the participation of this poet. Who is Jacob Gorham? I have no idea. I saw these poems and understood their value. That is real. All I know of this fellow is his name and email. That is enough. If the work is good, the end is in-sight. I hope you will agree with me, that the bio attached to work is nothing, the poet a meaningless scrap of coincidence, it is the work, which is...or...is not. So, if you like this work, please contact me through the staff contact page, and I will relay your request to him. Who is Jacob Gorham? The question means nothing. The answer, in my estimation, is otherwise.

—Rich Norman editor in chief Mind Magazine